David,

I just wanted to follow-up on our conversation from Friday. As we discussed, we are in the process of updating the documentation that was never executed to get it into place to reflect AHS's ownership in Kingdom Health Labs. I just spoke with our client and some of the basic assumptions that influenced how the deal was originally structured changed so I am having to do some additional modifications. Regardless, the fact still remains that AHS has 1% ownership in Kingdom Health Labs and that is how the parties have operated since Jan. 1, 2021. I anticipate having the documents updated and delivered to our client for final review later this week so we should have fully executed versions at the end of the week or early next week for you to supplement to the government.

Let me know if you have any questions.

Thanks

Jay
